EVIDENCE IN THE SMOOT CASE

Witnesses Tell of Polygamous Relations.

EXISTED SINCE 1890.

The Wife of a Deceased Mormon Breaks Down in Giving Her Testimony Before the Committee.

MORMONISM TAUGHT IN SCHOOLS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Five witnesses were examined Tuesday by the State Committee on Privileges and Elections in the investigation of protestants against Senator Reed Smoot in the Senate. The first witness described the obligation taken by persons who were in the Mormon endowment house and declared that everyone agrees to submit to chastisement of the person if he or she reveals what takes place during the ceremony. Two members of the faculty of the Brigham Young University testified that they have sustained polygamous relations since the manifesto of 1890, and a teacher in one of the public schools asserted that the church had religion enough in such schools. Mrs. Margaret Geddes, a Mormon woman, examined concerning her plural marriage broke down on the stand. The hearings will be continued tomorrow.

PITIABLE TALE OF WITNESS

Mrs. Geddes said she was born in Glasgow, Scotland, where she was converted to the Mormon faith and went to Utah 20 years ago. She became the plural wife of William Geddes, in Logan, Utah, the same year. She said she did not have her husband much, as she remained in Oregon and she went to her husband's first wife and there a child was born. She broke down crying as she gave this testimony.

It was brought out that her husband died 13 years ago and that her youngest child is five and a half years old. She said she had not been married a second time and refused to give the name of her youngest child's father. She broke down again as she told the commission she has no one to look after her and that she sat in the waiting room from two o'clock Monday morning until daylight after arriving in Washington.

TEACHING MORMONISM IN SCHOOL.

Arthur Morning, a teacher in the public schools of Utah, said he had been called on to conduct religious classes in his school of 20 pupils. He read letters from Box Elder, state president, instructing him how to outline the Mormon class work. One letter was dated about a year ago and another in September, 1904. Mr. Morning said he is not a Mormon himself.

Mr. Taylor offered in evidence passages from the books on Mormonism sent to all grades of the schools. They were largely composed of sketches of the live of prominent Mormons, among them the president of the church and apostles, including Senator Smoot.

Senator Hopkins asked Mr. Taylor what he expected to prove by that.

"We are proving," said Mr. Taylor, "that the Mormon church is teaching its religion at the public expense and that the lessons are largely composed of biographies of men who are "notorious" polygamists."

Send Your Christmas Presents Early.

Those shipping Christmas presents this year would do well to take advantage of early shipments, thereby insuring that they reach their destination in time. It is of advantage to both shippers and consignees. If the shipments are not perishable it is not too early to forward them even now, marking them "Not to be opened until Christmas."

This early forwarding of Christmas parcels insures their distribution in a very much better manner than if they are handled during four or five days prior to Christmas. Bring better distributed results in more careful handling and vastly better delivery, and avoids the keen disappointment that arises from failure to receive on Christmas day or prior to it, a package that is known to be on the way.

DEATH OF GEORGE W. THOMAS.

Died Suddenly at His Mountain Home Near Coleville.

Col. George W. Thomas, a life long resident of Bellefonte, died at the mountain home of the Burnside family, above Coleville, very suddenly Wednesday morning of heart failure. He had beenin bad health for some time but was reported as improving of late.

He was born at Clearfield, June 10, 1829, making his age 75 years, 6 months and 4 days.

For many years he was engaged in the mercantile business in Bellefonte; at one time with Clark Toner now of Washington, D. C., and later with his brother-in-law, the late Thomas Burnside.

He was a veteran of the civil war and a highly respected citizen of this community. His death occurred at the old family homestead

The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed but it will occur sometime Friday.

Died in the Performance of His Duty.

The sudden and almost tragic death of Edward Norton, the efficient head of Jersey Shore's police force, shocked the town Sunday morning, and was almost the sole topic of discussion throughout the day. The chief with Officer Robinson was called on at a late hour to arrest Curtis and Charles Andrews, two young men from Antes Fort, who had grown hilarious and disorderly on the street. The arrest was not accomplished without an effort, for the young men resisted with all their force, taxing the strength of the two officers to the utmost. The unruly youths were finally handcuffed, however, and locked up for the night.

About midnight chief Norton and Officer Robinson went to the borough offices and shortly after the chief police said he would go and lie down again. Soon after when Robinson went to the toilet room he found Norton lying dead.

Justice Stamm held an inquest yesterday afternoon and after hearing the facts in the case the jury rendered a verdict that death was the result of heart failure, superinduced by over exertion in the discharge of his duties as policeman.

Chief Norton was about 48 years of age. He was born in Jersey Shore and had always resided there. He was a very popular officer and an upright citizen. He was unmarried.

A Serious Accident.

On Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Harvey Miller, who is one of Col. John A. Woodward's teamsters, met with a serious accident while working on the road, which might have meant his death. He was hauling gravel from a pit and while loading the wagon the pit caved in, almost completely covering him, nothing but his head being visible. The supervisor, Ralph Schenck, dug him out and he was at once taken to the home of D. B. Schenck and Dr. McEntire summoned. Everything possible was done to relieve his suffering, after which he was taken to his home. We are glad to say that no bones were broken, yet he is a badly bruised up man, and if nothing further sets in he is expected to recover. Mr Miller and family certainly have the sympathy of the people of this community.—Howard Hustler.

Quail for Pennsylvania.

Forty thousand quail are being purchased in Oklahoma for distribution in Pennsylvania. It is an easy matter to trap 10,000 per day in that territory, so plentiful are they. The legislature at the next session will be requested to adopt these laws: The state to raise game for stocking purposes, to prohibit duck hunting after January 1. No dogs to be trained until August 1, and then to be kept under control and not permitted to remain all night in the woods. Deer hunting to commence November 1 and to continue for fifteen days, limiting each hunter to one deer per annum and providing a penalty of $100 for shooting deer with buckshot; bullets only to be used.

Coal Company is Robbed.

Two masked men entered the Leahy Coal Company's office in the Masonic Temple, Altoona, at noon Saturday, knocked down Clerk Wilbur Ale, bound and gagged him and stole $2,000 which had been placed in a satchel ready to be taken to Lilly to pay off the miners.

Ale was alone in the office at the time, Paymaster Charles Leahy having gone to lunch. The robbers knocked at the door, and, as Ale opened it, felled him with a blow in the face, rendering him unconscious. After trying him to the safe the men took the money and disappeared.

FORECAST OF WEEK'S WORK

By the Nation's Law Makers at Washington D. C.

THE PHILIPPINE BILL

Senate Will Take Up This Measure and Vote on It—Measure's Passage is Foregone Conclusion.

GETTING READY FOR HOLIDAY RECESS

Washington Dec. 12.—The principal event scheduled for the Senate during the present week is taking of the vote on the Philippine bill which is set down for next Friday at 3 o'clock. Under the agreement to vote the bill remains the unfinished business of the Senate until that date and it will have preference over all other questions in the matter of debate each day after 2 o'clock. Many Democratic Senators are anxious, but the best information obtainable is that there will be no general debate on the question as they consider the passage of the bill a foregone conclusion. They will devote their efforts to securing a modification of some of the provisions which they regard as especially obnoxious, giving special attention to the bond and Chinese clause.

After the vote on the Philippine bill on Friday the Senate will adjourn until the following Monday and it is considered doubtful whether much more business of general importance will be then undertaken until after Christmas as many Senators already have announced their intention to leave for home immediately after the vote on the Philippine measure. It has been the original intention of the Senate to press for an adjournment as early as the 19th inst. but there is now manifest disposition to all the House to have its own way in fixing the date for the 21st. even thought the Senate remain only technically in session, as will be the case, according to the present outlook.

It is the intention not to transact much business other than the Philippine legislation during the present time.

It is believed that the statehood bill will not be reported from the committee before the holidays. The vacancies on the Senate committees will probably be filled during the week.

The House will begin the second week of the session with consideration of private pension bills. On Tuesday the resolution reported by the Judiciary Committee to impeach Charles Swayne, Judge of the Northern District of Florida, comes before the House as a special order consideration having been received by resolution at the last session. All the evidence taken since last session has been printed for the use of members of the House. A supplement report has been submitted to the House by the Judge.

Death of a Philipsburg Citizen.

Oscar Adams, Sr., a prominent resident of Philipsburg died at his home in that place at 6:30 last Saturday evening after a short illness of pneumonia. He had been ailing for a couple of years, but for the past six months has been going down physically. Mr. Adams was born in Philipsburg in 1833, the 4th day of January. He was married to Miss Isabella Jane Holt, on June 17th, 1858. Nearly all their life was spent in Philipsburg, and resided in the house he died in for forty-six years, having built the house when Philipsburg was only a small villiage. He had been a consistent member of the M. E. church for fifty-three years, and was a devoted christian, always found in his place at church when he was able to get there. He was a tailor by trade, and carried on the business in this place for many years, in the house he died in. He was also in the undertaking business on Front and Spruce streets. He was also engaged in the general mercantile business, in the Potter block

He is survived by three sisters and one brother out of a family of ten. The living are Mrs. Emily Southard, and Mrs. E. B. Hartman, of Harrisburg; Mrs. Godfrey Fisher, of Tyrone, and James I. Adams, of Clearfield.

The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with services at the house. Rev. George D. Pennepacker, D. D., officiated. The Free Masons, of which he was a member a long time, had charge of the funeral. Interment in the Philipsburg cemetery.

REV. JESSE R. AKERS.

Death of a Man Who Was Well Known in Altoona and Blair County.

The many friends of the Rev. Jesse R. Akers, a superannuated member of the Central Pennsylvania conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, will be pained to learn of his death, which occurred at his home in Everett on Wednesday morning last. He was the victim of a paralytic stroke about two years ago, since which time his health has been in a precarious condition and his death was due to a general decline.

Mr. Akers was born some twelve miles from Everette, Bedford county, in 1844, so that he had completed his sixtieth year at the time of his decease. He united with the Methodist Episcopal church in his boyhood and was admitted to the itinerant ministry as a member of the Central Pennsylvania conference in March, 1869. He served charges at Saxton, Thompsontown, Freedom, Huntingdon, West Huntingdon, but at the expiration of ten years, in 1879, he took a supernumerary relation, owing to an affection of the throat, which interfered with his delivery, and entered business. During the following years he resided at Huntingdon, Hollidaysburg or Everett, also spending much time in Altoona, where he had an office, being in the service of the Union Central Insurance company, of Cincinnati.

The deceased is survived by his wife, who was Miss Clara Ashcom, of Everett, and by two children, a son and a daughter—Herbert Ashcom Akers, formerly of Altoona, but who recently removed to Youngstown, O., and Mrs. Marjorie Coe, of Iron City, Michigan. He leaves many friends and associates of his earlier years, who loved him for his many amiable qualities and who will sincerely sympathize with his bereaved family.

The funeral services took place at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon.—Altoona Tribune.

Little Girl Killed.

Mary Spicher, a little 5 year old girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Spicher, of Cresson, and grand-daughter of John Spicher, of Centre Hall, was run down and instantly killed at Cresson, Thursday afternoon of last week, by second section of fast mail. After school she was sent by her mother to the grocer's, and to reach the store had to cross the railroad. She started on her errand, accompanied by her sister, and in passing over the railroad at the crossing, near MO tower, they failed to notice the approach of the fast express train. It struck the Spicher girl and hurled her from the track, while her companion escaped injury. The child was dead when picked up and an examination showed that her skull had been fractured.

The father is a conductor on the Cresson and Clearfield division of the Pennvania railroad, and recently moved from Patton to Cresson.

Crying for Water Everywhere.

The increasing drought throughout this section is assuming alarming proportions in Lycoming county. More wells are drying up and small streams upon which many farmers depend for their water supply are rapidly freezing up, leaving scarcely any water, says the Gazette and Bulletin.

Many grist mills have been obliged to close down because the steams that furnished their water supply have fallen so low that water power is no longer available.

The river and creeks were never so low at this time of year. A steady rain and that very soon will be the only preventive of a general water famine in the rural districts. In case of a freeze up there will be no end of trouble.

Montoursville is now depending solely on its wells for its supply of water, the reservoir being practically dry.

The Mermaid Club.

The Mermaid Club, composed of Rev. George Israel Brown, Noah Swayne, II, Prof. W. P. Wharton, Harry Keller, Prof. John D. Meyer and Dr. F. Clifton Smith, held its regular semi-monthly meeting at the home of Harry Keller, on East Linn street Thursday evening. This club is a new organization in town and has been formed for the purpose of studying the literary and political aspect of the different periods of the World's history. This year English Literature will be studied, more especially the minor parts of the seventeenth century. The very significant name of this club was taken from the name of the famous London resort of these poets whose writings are being studied. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. Swayne.

DISAPPEARING WAR SHIPS

QUESTION OF ARMISTICE

Japanese Regard Russian Refusal to Accept as the Work of Russian Officers Who were Afraid

THAT THEIR MEN WOULD DESERT

London, England Dec. 10.—A dispatch to the Japanese legation from Tokio, dated Friday says:

"The naval staff at Port Arthur reports that on Thursday evening the Pallada was set on fire and heeled to port with her stern sunk. Eleven shots hit the Giliak (gunboat.) The Bayan took fire at 11:30 and is still ablaze at 4:15 p. m.

"The Amur (transport), was hit fourteen times and sank. Many shots damaged the warehouses and other buildings near Peiyn mountain and the arsenal."

Headquarters of the Third Japanese Army. Before Port Arthur, via Fusan, Korea, Dec. 9.—On the night of Nov. 26 the Japanese established infantry trenches inside the parapees of the two Rihlung and the north Keekwan forts, but on the following day they were compelled to retire beyond the moats. Since then there has been practically no fighting done along the incline of the eastern ride of the forts, the main strength of the Japanese troops having been concentrated to effect the capture of 203 Metre Hill.

The cruiser Pobieda had keeled over in the harbor and is burning. The battleship Retvizan and the turret ship Poltava have been sunk. The cruiser Bayan has been beached. The other vessels are making no effort to escape.

The Japanese regard the refusal of the Russians to accept an armistice, which has been asked for and granted for the purpose of gathering the killed and wounded on 203 Metre Hill as the overruling of the humane desire of Gen. Stoessel by the officers commanding the forts. It was feared by these officers, the Japanese think, that their men would desert and give the Japanese the advantage of information regarding the forts. Russian prisoners report that Gen. Stoessel's order was overruled by the garrison commanders.

The Daily Telegraph's Tien Tsin correspondent reports that General Oku, after a three days' artillery engagement, drove the Russians on Sunday out of the small lofty island of Cusban in the river, ten miles north of Liao Yang. The Russians, it is added, abandoned a quantity of supplies and several guns and retired to a position eight miles northwest, from where they heavily bombarded the Japanese, setting fire on Tuesday to kerosene store houses and caused conflagrations which did not cease until Wednesday. The Japanese are still gallantly holding the island with a handful of men. Their casualties, it is alleged, number 5,000.

Religious Scruples Caused a Strike.

A number of Jewish workmen sent to Altoona from New York to work for Railroad contractor H. S. Kerbaugh threw up their jobs on Tuesday because they were required to eat pork. The meat was served at dinner, and Thomas Rosenthal, Aaron Blumberg and Nathan Schleiser made affidavit to it. Kerbaugh, having a rush job, had no other food available. About 50 Hebrews, dissatisfied with their work, are quartered in the Jewish synagogue and are being cared for by members of the church.

No Water Along Fall Brook District.

Scarcity of water is giving trouble along the Fall Brook district of the Central, but the tanks along the Beech Creek and river line seem to be holding out in a satisfactory manner. Pumps have been started at Boiling Springs and also at Stokesdale and unless it rains soon pumps will have to be put in use at other place. At Avis Tuesday night there was no water for engines, but this was not due to a lack of supply, but to something being the matter with the meter.

Dedication at Pine Hall.

Sunday was a thronged day at Pine Hall, in fact for the past six months everything was on the hustle bent to ward building a new church on the old burnt site, that went up in flames on the 15th of last December and the congregation can justly feel proud in their efforts in having the new edifice completed. One that is a credit to any community and was dedicated to the service of Almighty God on last Sunday, free of debt and several hundred dollars in the treasury besides.

The building is 30x50 feet, the main auditorium and the annex is 20x30 feet and so arranged to be in good view of the pulpit. It is heated by a furnace in the basement and lighted by an acetylene gas plant in the basement, pews are of oak quartered and maple seats. Lecture room is seated with chairs all the inside is oak natural finish and is just grand, the history of the first congregation dates away back to the early settlers then known as New Northampton and of German descent.

Rev. D. M. Moser was the first pastor and Rev. C. T. Aikens is the present pastor and has made in his 16 years service a most creditable record. The cost of building the edifice was near the $5,000 mark. But this amount as well as several hundred dollars overplus was raised at the dedicatory services on Sunday. Rev. Frank Manhart, D D., of the Susquehanna University assisted by Rev. J. I. Stoneycypher, of Boalsburg and Rev. J. M. Rearick, of Centre Hall, assisted the pastor. Rev. Aikens, who had services in charge.

National Guard News.

The bill for the construction of armories has been prepared and will be introduced early in the session of the legislature.

The olive drab cap, recently made regulation in the United States army has not yet been adopted in Pennsylvania but probably will be before the next encampment.

The First Brigade regiments which usually suspend drills in December have not done so this year because the necessity for having the new Drill Regulations ready for the spring inspection.

The Second regiment qualified five experts, no sharpshooters, 121 marksmen, 110 first class, 151 second class, 115 third class marksmen with the rifle and has 206 fourth class men. With the revolver they qualified 10 experts and 18 marksmen.

Some of the companies of the Twelfth are making good progress with the New Drill Regulations but others are taking things so easy that the spring inspection is bound to catch them unprepared

Col. Austin Shipley Dead.

From the Austin (Tex.) Statesman.

Colonel Alexander Nash Shipley died in this city November 15th, 1904, after an illness of four days. Colonel Shipley was an old and well known resident of this section. He was a retired army officer, having given many years of his life to military service and carved for himself an enviable career.

At one time Colonel Shipley had charge of the Barracks at this point.

He was seventy-eight years of age at the time of his death and leave to mourn his loss, besides his wife, one sister and two brothers, namely: Mrs. Susan Blair, widow of Dr. J. M. Blair; B. W. Shipley and J. H. Shipley, all of Fleming, Pennsylvania. Services will be held in this city, after which the body will be taken to San Antonio, where the interment will be made in the National Cemetery of that city.

DEATH OF D. S. DUNHAM.

Veteran Newspaper Man Dies at Passadena, California.

David S. Dunham, formerly of Bellefonte, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. H. Dutton at Passadena, Cal., December 5th, 1904. His death was due to gangrene which attacked one of his limbs. The limb was amputated and he was thought to be getting along nicely, but he suffered a relapse which resulted in his death as above stated.

The deceased was widely known throughout Pennsylvania as a newspaper man and founded the first paper ever published in Lock Haven. He did considerable newspaper work in Bellefonte and was a veteran of the civil war. His birth place was Indiana, Pa., and the date of his birth October 25, 1828. He leaves two children, Fred S. Dunham, of Howard, and Mrs. H. H. Dutton, of Passadena, California. The remains will probably be brought east for burial.

after I had refreshed my mind with what had been written about this old room.

"Not a sound disturbed the house as I seated myself to my reading in front of the library shelves. I was as much alone under that desolate roof as mortal could be with men anywhere within reach of him. I enjoyed the solitude and was making a very pretty theory for myself on a scrap of paper I tore from another old book when a noise suddenly rose in front, which, slight as it was, was quite unmistakable to ears trained to listening. Some one was unlocking the front door.

"Naturally I thought it to be Mr. Jeffrey returning for a second visit to his wife's house, and, knowing what I might expect if he surprised me on the premises, I restored the book hastily to its place and as hastily blew out the candle. Then, with every intention of flight, I backed toward the door by which I had entered. But some impulse stronger than that of escape made me stop just before I reached it. I could see nothing—the place was dark as Tophet—but I could listen. The person—Mr. Jeffrey or some other—was coming my way, and in perfect darkness. I could hear the faltering steps—the fingers dragging along the walls; then a rustle as of skirts, proving the intruder to be a woman—a fact which greatly surprised me—then a long drawn sigh or gasp.

"This last determined me. The situation was too intense for me to leave without first learning who the woman was who in terror and shrinking dared to drag her half resisting feet through these empty halls and into a place cursed with such unwholesome memories. I did not think of Veronica. No one looks for a butterfly in the depths of a dungeon. But I did think of Miss Tuttle—that woman of resolute will. Without attempting to imagine the reason for her presence, I stood my ground and harkened till the heavy mahogany door at the other end of the room began to swing in by jerks under the faint and tremulous push of a terrified hand. Then there came silence—a long silence—followed by a moan so agonized that I realized that whatever was the cause of this panting woman's presence here, it was due to no mere errand of curiosity. This whetted my purpose. Anything done in this house was in a way done to me: so I remained quiet and watched. But the sounds which now and then came from the remote corner upon which my attention was concentrated were very eloquent.

"I heard sighs and bitter groans, with now and then a murmured prayer, broken by a low wailing, in which I caught the name of Francis. And still, possibly on account of the utterance of this name, I thought the woman near me to be Miss Tuttle, and even went so far as to imagine the cause of her suffering if not the nature of her retribution. Words succeeded cries and I caught phrases expressive of fear and some sort of agonized hesitation. Once these broken ejaculations were interrupted by a dull sound. Something had dropped to the bare floor. We shall never know what it was, but I have no doubt that it was the pistol, and that the marks of dust to be found on the connecting ribbon were made by her own fingers in taking it again in her hand. (You will remember that these same fingers had but a few minutes previous groped their way along the walls.) For her voice soon took a different tone, and such unintelligible phrases as these could be heard issuing from her partly paralyzed lips:

"'I must! I can never meet his eye again alive. He would despise— Brave enough to—to—another's blood—coward—when—own. Oh, God, forgive!' Then another silence, during which I almost made up my mind to interfere, then a loud report and a flash so startling and unexpected that I recoiled, during which the room leaped into sudden view—she, too, Veronica, with baby face drawn and set like a woman's—then darkness again and a heavy fall which shook the floor, if not my hard old heart. The flash and that fall enlightened me. I had just witnessed the suicide of the last Moore saving myself, a suicide for which I was totally unprepared and one which I do not yet understand.

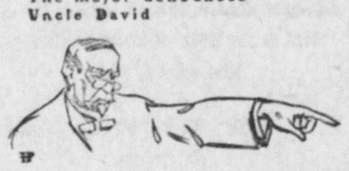
"I did not go over to her. She was as dead when she fell as she ever would be. In the flash which lit everything I had seen where her pistol was pointed. Why disturb her, then? Nor did I return upstairs. I had small interest now in anything but my own escape from a situation more or less compromising. Do you blame me for this? I was her heir, and I was where I had no legal right to be. Do you think that I was called upon to publish my shame and tell how I lingered there while my own niece shot herself before my eyes? That shot made me a millionaire. This certainly was excitement enough for one day. Besides, I did not leave her there neglected. I notified you later after I had got my breath and had found some excuse. That wasn't enough? Ah, I see that you are all models of courage and magnanimity. You would have laid ourselves open to every reproach rather than let a little necessary perjury pass your lips. But I am no model. I am simply an old man who has been too hardly dealt with for seventy long years to possess every virtue. I made a mistake—I see it now—trusted a dog when I shouldn't—but if Rudge had not seen ghosts—well, what now?"

We had, one and all, with an involuntary impulse turned our backs upon him.

"What are you doing?" he hotly demanded.

"Only what all Washington will do tomorrow and afterward the whole world," gravely returned the major. Then, as an ejaculation escaped the astonished millionaire, he impressively added: "A perjury which allows an innocent man and woman to remain under the suspicion of murder for five weeks is one which not only the law has a right to punish, but which all society will condemn. Henceforth you will find yourself under a ban, Mr. Moore." Time amply verified this prophecy. Mr. Moore is living in great style in the Moore house and drives horses which are conspicuous even in Washington, but no one accepts his invitations, and he is as much of a recluse in his present mansion as he ever was in the humble cottage in which his days of penury were spent.

The major denounces Uncle David



My story ends here. The matter never came before the grand jury. Suicide had been proved, and there the affair rested.

"Dewitt's is the only genuine Witch Hazel Salve," writes J. L. Tucker, of Centre, Ala., "I have used it in my family for Piles, Cuts and Burns for years and can recommend it to be the best Salve on the market. Every family should keep it as it is an invaluable household remedy, and should always be kept on hand for immediate use." Mrs. Samuel Gage, of North Bush, N. Y., says: "I had a fever sore on my ankle for twelve years that the doctors could not cure. All salves and blood remedies proved worthless. I could not walk for over two years. Finally, I was persuaded to try DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, which has completely cured me. It is a wonderful relief." DeWitt's Hazel Salve cures without a scar. Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

Pennsylvania Railroad's Winter Excursion Route Book.

In pursuance of its annual custom, the Passenger Department of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has just issued an attractive and comprehensive book descriptive of the leading Winter resorts of the East and South, and giving the rates and various routes and combinations of routes of travel. Like all the publications of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, this "Winter Excursion Book" is a model of typographical and pictorial work. It is bound in a handsome and artistic cover in colors, and contains much valuable information for Winter tourists and travelers in general. It can be had free of charge at the principal ticket offices of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, or will be sent postpaid upon application to Geo. W. Boyd, General Passenger Agent, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia.

The Pennsy Buys Farms.

The Pennsylvania railroad company has recently purchased five large farms at the mouth of the Juniata river near Clark's Ferry and will utilize the land for the purpose of raising locust trees, to be used at maturity for railroad ties This plan is being carried out by the company at many places adjacent to or near its lines. The company is already meeting with some difficulty in the purchase of railroad ties and they are becoming scarcer each year as more lumber is being cut down. 50,009 trees will be planted at Clark's Ferry reservation and the work will be done under the supervision of Hugh Quick, of Rupert, Mr. Quick says that it will take twenty years for the locust trees to mature.

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty cent and dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists.

FAMOUS WOMAN UNDER ARREST

Mrs. Chadwick Charged With Serious Crime.

TAKEN INTO CUSTODY

Remained in Her Apartments under Surveillance Wednesday Night—In Bed When Officials Arrived.

AIDED IN AN EMBEZZLEMENT.

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick was placed under arrest at 6:25 tonight by United States Marshal Henkle and Chief Flynn, of the Secret Service. The arrest was made at the instigation of the Federal officials of Cleveland and the warrant was issued by Assistant District Attorney Baldwin. The charge is "aiding and abetting a bank official in an embezzlement."

The arrest was made by Chief Flynn. When the maid opened the door in answer to the summons by the officer, Mr. Flynn asked for Mrs. Chadwick, and was taken to her. He served the warrant upon her and informed her that she was under arrest. Mrs. Chadwick wept bitterly and nearly fainted.

The maid became hysterical, but when she saw that her mistress was likely to swoon she calmed herself and rendered such assistance as was necessary to Mrs. Chadwick. The son stood by with blanched face and said nothing. The charge against Mrs. Chadwick is "aiding and abetting a bank officer in embezzling $1,250,000.

WILL HAVE HEARING TODAY.

United States Marshal Henkel announced after the arrest that in view of Mrs. Chadwick's condition she would be kept in the hotel tonight under the surveillance of his deputies. Tomorrow morning she will be given a hearing.

Shortly after the arrest of Mrs. Chadwick her New York attorney, Philip Carpenter, was seen by a representative of the Associated Press at his office. Mr. Carpenter said that he had not seen Mrs. Chadwick since this afternoon, and in view of the fact he would make no statement. He said that he should see his client later in the evening and possibly might have something to say to the Associated Press after his interview with her.

Mrs. Chadwick left the New Amsterdam Hotel this afternoon and went to the Hotel Breslin, Twenty-ninth street and Broadway. She left the New Amsterdam Hotel in a carriage accompanied by her son and maid.

Receiver Frank Lyon, of the Citizen's National bank of Oberlin, said to the Associated Press tonight that the arrest of Mrs. Chadwick merely came "in the natural course of events."

He declined to say what effect the arrest would have on the affairs of the Citizen's bank, nor would he say whether the embezzlement referred to in the warrant was in connection with the Oberlin institution.

Mr. Lyon said he would study the case carefully tonight and might have something to say later.

New York, Dec. 9.—Mrs. Cassie L Chadwick is today occupying one of the scantily furnished cells in the Tombs. After a fruitless search all day for bail her attorney gave up the fight last night and Philip Carpenter, her counsel stood in the corridor of the Federal building at 9 o'clock when United States Marshal Henkel threw open the double doors of his office and led the woman out on her way to prison.

Mrs. Chadwick was wan, tired and almost fainting. She made her way across the hall to the elevator, leaning heavily on the Marshal's arm and that of her son Emil. Behind them came her nurse, Freda Swenson, and Deputy Marshall Kennedy.

The party passed through a double row of curious people to a carriage which was inwaiting on the Broadway side.

They were driven directly to the Tombs. Arriving there Mrs. Chadwick was half carried up the steps and into the building. Warden Flynn met the party, and after the usual preliminaries had been attended to the woman asked permission to have her nurse remain with her. This was denied, the warden saying that she should have no privileges not allowed other prisoners. Mrs. Chadwick gave a handbag and a few trinklets to the nurse and whispered some instructions to her son. Marshal Henkel formally turned his prisoner over to the warden and she was taken to the matron's room. She asked to say good night to her son and the lad eagerly rushed to his mother and wrapping his arms about her, gave her a long embrace.

Then she was led away to the inner office, where her pedigree was taken and she was assigned to a cell. The son and nurse entered a carriage and were driven to a hotel.

While lying on a couch in the United States Marshal's office awaiting a bondsman, Mrs. Chadwick for the first time since her name has been before the public, consented to talk for publication and gave an interview to a representative of the Associated Press in which she denied relationship to Mrs. York, of San Francisco, who gave out an interview yesterday telling of the earlier life of Mrs. Chadwick.

In justice to her son, Mrs. Chadwick said she would not make a statement about "this Madame De Vere business" at the present time, but promised that later "Madame De Vere's whereabouts and everything else in connection with this case will be shown."

Mrs. Chadwick also told of the Wade Park and Oberlin Bank matters. Referring to the failure of the latter institution she said :

"I would not like to live a minute if I did not think I could pay these poor people back."

When asked concerning Andrew Carnegie's connection with her financial affairs she declined absolutely to talk, referring her interviewer to her counsel.

Efforts to get bail will continue today, altbough Mrs. Chadwick expressed the desire Thursday night to go to Cleveland as soon as possible. She said she would go there voluntarily were it not for the contrary advice of counsel.

This has no doubt been one of the most momentous days in Mrs. Chadwick's history. It commenced with her early departure from her hotel for the Federal building and ended with her incarceration in the Tombs.

In the interval she had been arraigned before United States Commissioner Shields and held in $15,000 bail, which she was unable to furnish. All day long lawyers representing her interests had sought in every quarter for some one owning real estate in Manhattan who would sign her bond, and the marshal had, out of sympathy for the woman, kept her in his office hours after she should have been removed. The endeavors of the lawyers were unsuccessful, rendering her imprisonment necessary.

To add to her cup of woe it was learned Thursday night that a charge of forgery would very likely be made against the woman in Ohio, based on the Carnegie notes and other papers given as securities for loans.

Mrs. Chadwick dined at 7 o'clock Thursday night in Marshal Henkel's office under conditions in strange contrast to the manner in which she lived at the New York hotels. Her dinner consisted of an orange, a ham sandwich and a piece of cake, brought to her by her son from a Broadway lunch counter. She lay on a hard leather couch, the room filled with desks, chairs and file cases. A deputy marshal stood watch while her nurse took the meagre lunch from a paper bag and peeled the orange. Emil sat by in silence and ate a few bites of a sandwich, and the nurse dried her tears long enough to taste the lunch counter fare.

The three unfortunates had nothing to say to each other. Occasionally Mrs. Chadwich sobbed, and the faithful nurse leaned over her mistress and soothed her gray hair. Mrs. Chadwick's face was much inflamed, her eyes were red and her hands trembled violently as she pushed away the remains of the food and motioned Freda to give her a pile of evening papers which lay on a chair near the couch. She picked the papers up one by one and between sobs gave the first pages a hasty glance. After she had run through the lot she selected one which seemed to interest her especially and began reading it with great care. But the strain seemed too great. She burst into tears and the slight boy, who seemed cool under all the excitement, hastened to his mother's side and quieted her with kisses. Thus the sad trio awaited the announcement of Mrs. Chadwick's counsel that she must go to jail because surety for $15.000 could not be had.

A BRILLIANT NUPTIAL EVENT.

Robt. Catherman Weds Miss Kathryn Shires.

One of the prettiest and most elaborate weddings that has taken place in Pennsvalley was that of Robt. Catherman and Miss Kathryn Shires, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Shires, of Spring Mills, Wednesday at high noon. The house was beautifully decorated with palms and ferns tastefully arranged and the large parlor was festooned with evergreen. By 11 o'clock a large number of guests had arrived and as the clock tolled the hour of 12 and the strains of Mendelsohn's wedding march sounded, played by Miss Maud From, of Mifflinburg. Dr. Bell, of the M. E. conference, appeared first, assisted by Rev. McIlnay, then came the groom and groom's man followed by the bride and bride's maid, The best man was Frof. S. Ward Gramley and the brides maid, Renna, sister of the bride. They were declared man and wife by the ring ceremony The bride was attired in white silk carrying a shower bouquet of roses and carnations. The bridesmaid wore a dress of point-de-crepe and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Congratulations were then showered on the young couple by the friends and relations. Then an elegant dinner was served.

The bride is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Shires, while the groom is a young telegraph operator whose home is in Mifflinburg. Both young people are held in high esteem.

They left on the 2:48 train for Philadelphia and eastern cities.

We wish them much happiness.

559 Deer Slain in the State in one Month.

A dispatch from Philadelphia says : Hunters in 17 counties of Pennsylvania killed 559 deer in the season which closed last Wednesday, according to the reports gathered from the hunting districts by the North American. This is the largest number slain for many years, and the result places this state among the first in the union for deer hunting. In the same period 131 bears were killed and two deer huntsmen lost their lives.

Centre county leads the state in point of the number of deer killed, 128 having fallen there within 30 days. Gunners returning to Bellefonte report that deer have never been so abundant as this year. Twenty-five bears fell in this county.

Why They do it in Wisconsin.

Wisconsin has a wise system for nominating candidates by direct vote of the people. This law provides that a legal primary election be held in September preceding the regular election in November, and all the candidates of all parties to be voted for must be chosen at the primaries. Exactly the same safeguards now thrown around the ballot box at general elections apply to the primary, The nominating conventions are done away with entirely and candidates are the actual choice of a majority, or a plurality, of the voters of their respective parties. Even candidates for United States senator must go before the primaries to make them eligible.

Surprised Their Friends.

Isaac Martz, of McAlevy's Fort, Huntingdon county, and Miss Aggie MaGill, formerly of McAlevy's Fort but late of Altoona, slipped away from their friends on Wednesday and at Petersburg were united in holy bonds of wedlock by the Rev. Rugan, pastor of the Presbyterian church at that place.

Mr. Martz's many friends were agreeably surprised that he should forsake his bachelor ways and take unto himself a young bride. He is one of Huntingdon county's most prosperous farmers and his bride is a bright and accomplished young lady. Both parties are well known at Pine Grove Mills this county.

Good News for Philipsburg.

Harry Scott, assistant superintendent for the coal mines of Irish Bros., says that their mines at Munson, Red Jacket, Guion and Derby branch, are all starting up in full. This will be good news to many people in this section as these gentlemen employ a young army of men when their mines are working. It is indeed a pleasure to make this announcement.—Philipsburg Journal.

On His Own Hook.

W. Harrison Walker is now by himself in the law business. As everybody knows he is a hustler, or his success would not have been so great, and that his future is bright, and we bespeak for him a share of the patronage, resting assured that all business entrusted to him will be well taken care of. At the same time a word for our old-time friend, D. F. Fortney, Esq., who everybody knows there is not a more popular attorney on top of the ground than "Dave" and we wish both parties all the good luck and prosperity that they can get. It made a strong team in double harness, but both are capable of taking care of themselves "single."—Philipsburg Journal.

HICKS FOR DECEMBER.

Mixture of Rain, Snow, Blizzards and Much Cold Weather Predicted.

According to Prophet Hicks the first storm period is now over and the second one is on which is to extend from the 5th to 10th. The barometer will begin falling in all western sections early in the period and from about the 6th to the 10th general rains will move eastward over the country in the front part of the storm centers; on the west and northwest tangent rains will turn into snow and sleet, with strong probabilities of a December blizzard.

Third Storm Period—Reactionary, is central on the 12th, 13th and 14th. The probabilities are that very rough and unsettled weather will continue after the preceding period, but change to warmer, with falling barometer and more decided storms of rain and snow may be counted on from the 12th to 15th. Should the blizzardous results described in connection with the second period not materialize at that time, danger of such results will be all the greater at and about this third period.

Fourth Storm Period—Regular, extends from the 16th to the 22nd, being central on the 19th. As we enter this period general storm indications will appear.

From about the 19th to the 22nd rains will spread over the country eastward, while in all western and northern parts of the country, snow and sleet will follow the rains. The culmination of these storms will fall on and touching the 22nd, about which date the storms will assume the character of blizzards in many parts of the country. A rapid rise in barometer and high, cold gales from the north west will bring up the rear of these storms, sending a December cold wave into most parts of the country by Christmas day.

Fifth Storm Period—Reactionary, will center about 25th and 26th. It will be natural for squalls and storminess to continue in a general way from the preceding period, but this tendency will thicken into more decided storms of wind and snow on and about the 25th and 26th.

Sixth Storm Period—Regular, extends from the 28th into the opening days of January, 1905. On the last day of the month and year, exactly at midnight, the earth is at its nearest approach to the sun. About the 29th the barometer will fall again, the temperature will rise, and as the month goes out more storms of rain and snow will be moving eastward over the country. These storms will wind up the opening days of January, 1905, and be followed by the regular change to colder.

Dinner to Senator P. C. Knox.

On Monday, December 12th, the Pennsylvania Society will celebrate its sixth anniversary by a complimentary dinner to Senator P. C. Knox at the Waldorf-Astoria, in New York. It will be one of the most notable dinners this winter. President Roosevelt and the members of the Cabinet have been invited, together with Governor Pennypacker and many other prominent men. It will be the first time that a distinguished statesman has been honored with a large personal dinner in New York, and the occasion promises to be one of the highest interest. The Pennsylvania Society is the largest of the State societies in New York, having a membership of more than 700, and its dinners have, in the short space of six years, become among the most important of New York public festivities, and have attracted wide attention in that city and elsewhere. The coming Dinner promises, in many respects, to be the most successful given by the Society, and will be participated in by more than 500 persons. Senator Knox rightly regards this Dinner as a most unusual and significant compliment, and has expressed himself as deeply sensible to the great honor it implies. The occasion will be memorable also because, as the Pennsylvanians in New York feel a keen pride in their native State, full opportunity of expressing it will be taken at this time. A strong speaking program has been prepared, together with handsome souvenirs. Almost the entire first floor of the hotel has been engaged for the Dinner, and many members of the Society and guests from Pennsylvania have signified their intention of being present.

Pennsylvania Railroad Company Will Issue Clerical Orders for 1905.

Pursuant to its usual custom, the Pennsylvania Railroad company will issue clerical orders for the year 1905 to ordained clergymen having regular charge as settled pastors of churches located on or near its lines. Clergymen desiring such orders should make individual application for same on blanks furnished by the company and which can now be obtained from the Ticket Agents. Applications should be sent to the General Office of the company as soon as possible, in no case later than December 15th, so that orders may be mailed by December 30th, to all clergymen entitled to receive them.

Success of the Pure Food Law.

Commissioner Warren, the state and society at large won a victory when the Superior Court upheld the contention that the pure food law applied to all manner of beverages as well as to solid foods. This will result in trying many cases against saloon-keepers, grocers and druggists for selling impure wines and liquors, and many convictions are expected. In the meantime the work of the chemistry department is to be increased so that expert evidence can be had in all cases. The only drawback is that the commissioner has less money than is desirable and must dispense with some of his special agents until more fines are recovered or the Legislature makes provision. The present law, which gives the commission only the money that is secured from flues, a part of which goes informers, is not a proper one. The state should provide ample means for such a desirable work.

The most interesting feature of the report is the fact that the general quality of food sold in this state has been greatly improved in the last few years. Most housewives know this, If they complain that they cannot get certain foods as cheaply as formerly, they are told why, and are satisfied because it has been abundantly shown that the cheap foods were not only the purest in nutrition, but often dangerous. The work must go on until there is a reasonable certainly that all the food sold is good. We are far behind our ancestors. Two hundred years ago there was inspection of all food exposed in the markets and the adulterator was made to suffer. The man who cured fish, or tanned leather or wove cloth had to come up to a fixed high standard, and the result was beneficial. To this same end we will come again in due time, and it is hoped that this state will continue to take the lead in such a desirable work.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Course Tickets $1.20.

The price of course tickets for the remaining four entertainments, having been reduced to $1.20 we again appeal to those who have not yet gotten tickets to show their appreciation of our efforts to bring before our people a high class of entertainments, to at once do so, as there will be no farther reduction in price. We have the emphatic assurance of the Red Path Bureau of Boston that our entire course is first-class in every particular—could not be better—and we firmly believe at the close of the season you will concur in the same opinion.

"Russia and Japan" illustrated on large canvas, next in course Monday evening, the 19th.

In a kindly notice of the Ridgeway concert our friend of the Watchman said: "How the management can present such high class people at the ridiculously low prices prevailing for the Star Course is a matter of wonderment." Well, we cannot and so we appeal to the generosity of those who need this to be a little more liberal. The small sum of 15cts. for a reserved seat is but a trifle to you, but if all would even be that generous it would count. Talk up the course to your friends Help it along by giving a few tickets as Xmas gifts to those who would appreciate it and hold you in grateful remembrance. This work has been undertaken solely for the benefit of the town and should be more liberally patronized. As yet the sale of tickets is not by any means sufficient to meet the expenses. Tickets on sale at Sheffer's. Course $1.20; single admission 50 cents.

A Disappearing Island.

A curious story is told by the navigators of the Discovery, a ship sent out by England to explore the Antartic and recently returned. They say—and "The American Syren" seems to credit the yarn—that a certain island which they sought for has disappeared entirely. The existence of this island was first reported by Captain Dougherty in the year 1841, and again in the same part of the Pacific—about midway between New-Zealand and the southern extremity of South America—by Captain Keatee, nearly twenty years later. It was described as a rock about seven miles in length, with a central elevation of about 3000 feet. When the Discoverer came to the spot no land was to be seen, although the weather was exceptionally clear, while soundings revealed a depth of no less that 2,500 fathoms, or nearly three miles."

In a recent issue of "The American Syren" an article was devoted to the interesting subject of floating islands and how they are formed. But this lost island could not, obviously, be one of these its high elevation alone precluding such an idea. Besides which, as stated, it had been previously seen on two separate occasions, at an interval of twenty years. It has been said that the Bermudas and Azores were thrust up above the ocean's surface by volcanic action, while some maintain that they are the sole remains of the mythical submerged continent of Atlantic.

If we accept the story of the lost continent, may we not with equal reason account for the disappearance of the South Pacific Island? It is true that water three miles deep covers the spot, but that is a trifle to the thousands of miles that extend to the centre of the earth. If some violent convulsion of the earth's interior could annihilate a continent, we may readily believe that a similar disturbance could wipe out all traces of a solitary island in a remote sea.

To Print the Laws.

For several years the matter of printing the laws passed by the Legislature in a sufficient number of newspapers in the State has been discussed at every session of the general assembly, but the matter never took definite form.

There is now a movement on foot, however, to have introduced a bill providing for the publication of all general laws in not less than two newspapers in each county of the State. This movement is the outgrowth of the general ignorance of many of the acts that are now being strenuously enforced by the Dairy and Food Department and the State Sportsme'ns association.

Many persons have been arrested and fined for violation of laws which they had no knowledge whatever, and it is argued that it is only fair to the people who are expected to obey the laws that they should be given facilities of knowing something about them.

Under the present custom pamphlet laws only are issued to county officials, and these in such small quantities that the general public has no means of learning anything about the numerous acts passed at every session of the Legislature.

New York, Ohio and other States have been printing the laws in the newspapers for several years under the direction of the state officials, and the result has been so satisfactory, it is asserted, that it is believed such a bill will have no serious opposition at the coming session of the Legislature.

Those Vassar Girls.

Not long ago, apropos of the humors of the lecture-room, Dr. Woodrow Wilson told of an instructor in astronomy at Vassar College who in elucidation of a certain point made the following observation: "In astronomy, to determine the motions of three bodies that attract one another is admittedly difficult."

At this juncture the lecturer was annoyed by half-suppressed laughter in the rear of the class-room. "May I inquire," remarked the instructor, sarcastically, "what unconscious humor lay in my last statement?"

"I beg pardon," exclaimed the fair student who was responsible for the interruption. It merely struck me that the difficulty was nothing compared with the same problem in love,"—December Woman's Home Companion.

Resinol Art Calendar and Record of Baby's Doings.

FORCED ON BOARD CARS!

FOR SEAT OF WAR

In the Far East—Great Crowd Gathered and Attack Was Made By Regular Soldiers Who Killed 2, Wounded 248 Others.

AN ATTEMPT AT ASSASSINATION

St. Petersburg, Russia, December 13.—The departure of reservists for the seat of war from Saratof Monday was the occasion of serious rioting. A crowd of 40 000 accompanied the reservists to the station and began a disturbance. The reservists refused to enter the cars, whereupon the regulars were summoned and forced them aboard. The regular troops then attacked the surrounding rioters, killing two and wounding 248 others.

An attempt to assassinate Colonel Kisljakowski chief of police of Odessa, was made Monday. He was walking in mufti or citizens' attire, when he was struck a blow on the head with an iron knobbed stick. He was taken to a Jewish hospital, which happened to be the nearest; and is now there in a dangerous condition. His assailants escaped.

St. Petersburg has resumed its wonted quiet after the excitement of Sunday. The papers print only a brief official account of the demonstration in front of the Kazan cathedral. Nevertheless they are full of articles breathing demands for reforms, the Russ especially declaring that there can be no retreat and openly advocating a parlimentary system in which the upper house shall consist of members of the senate, council of the empire, and council of ministers and the lower house of elected representatives of the zemstovs.

Proclamations have been issued calling for a demonstration outside the law courts today at the opening of the trial of Sasoneff, the assassin of Minister of the Interior Von Plehve. The demonstrators have been instructed to come armed,

Stembok Fermor, the only zemstvo president who refused to sign the reform memorial, has resigned because of the criticism of his colleagues.

The general staff has no information confirmatory of the foreign reports of a Japanese advance below Mukden. According to official reports no fighting on a large scale is in progress or imminent. On the contrary, the situation is practically unchanged.

The authorities have no late news from Port Arthur, and like the public, are compelled to depend on information furnished by the Japanese. There is an inclination to accept these reports with a good deal of allowance.

London, December 13.—A dispatch from Tokio to the Daily Mail says:

"An officer who has returned from the army before Port Arthur says the delay observed in Russian preparations for gathering the dead during the armistices, showed a scarcity of available men in the garrison

New Fads for Girls.

Nowadays the smart girl never makes a mistake in selecting her hat, for it is not only its coloring and lines that she studies, but its perfect adaptability to her own individual self. The poke-bonnet, which some way always suggests kisses and shy sweet girls of the long ago, is in vogue again. It is quite as irresistible as ever, and perhaps a bit smarter in style. But you can be sure it is not every girl who will wear one. Yet if she is a typical "poke-bonnet girl," then she will never look prettier than this winter in her high-crowned, quaint poke, tied straight under the dimple in her chin.

And with the coming of the poke has come back another old-time fashion. For dress occasions white silk stockings are now the correct thing. Worn with a slipper of black satin or black shiny leather they look extremely smart. A new black patent-kid slipper with a pointed toe and a high heel has for its decoration a rosette made of narrow black velvet ribbon. This rosette has the effect of being fastened to the slipper by narrow velvet bands and bright little rhinestone buckles, the stockings showing both below and above the rosette.—December Woman's Home Companion.

Blood Poison from a Splinter.

Register and Recorder Enyeart, of Huntingdon, about three weeks ago ran a splinter into one of his fingers. A few days later the wound became quite sore and at intervals he suffered greatly. The rest of his body is now becoming affected and blood poisoning is feared. Grave doubts are now entertained in regard to Mr. Enyeart's recovery.

Our Water Works.

There has recently appeared in our town paper articles bearing on the Water Works—more particularly the new pumping station—which are likely to mislead those who do not happen to have the facts.

The pump at the Phoenix Station is now, while the water used for power is conceded to be lower than for 35 years, delivering over nine hundred thousand (900,000) gallons every twenty-four hours, this amount being pumped without the use of steam. The small pump at the old pumping station is delivering one hundred and seventy thousand (170,000) gallons every twenty four hours without the use of steam. Hence, we are at present time receiving throughout our town the total of one million, seventy thousand (1,070,000) gallons every twenty-four hours without spending one cent for coal.

But our people use, daily, one million five hundred thousand (1,500,000) gallons of water, consequently the additional amount or four hundred and thirty thousand (430.000) gallons must be pumped with steam, this is done by connecting the engine at Phoenix Station, with the water wheel; and, in doing the additional work about one ton of coal is burned in twenty-four hours. Now it must be born in mind that when the water used as power is at an average stage the pump at the Phoenix Station easily delivers one million four hundred thousand (1,400,000) gallons every twenty-four hours, using water power.

What has, however, led to the erroneous impression that the new pump was not doing its duty, is the fact, that at times there is demanded over two million (2,000,000 gallons of water in twenty-four hours, this is more than the Phoenix Station pump should furnish, because its capacity is meant to be one and one-half million gallons in twenty-four hours, consequently while it is doing its duty and more by delivering over one and one-half million (1½ million) gallons the balance must be furnished by the old pumps.

In arriving at what should be the capacity of the Phoenix Pump a test was made, by meter, covering a period of several months which showed that the average amount of water required by the borough in twenty-four hours was one million two hundred and fifty thousand (1,250,000) gallons. It was decided that a pump with one and one-half (1½) million gallons capacity would be ample and such a pump was ordered. Now some people are surprised that the pump does not supply the borough with over two million gallons of water!

As to the economy resulting from the Phoenix Station. During the year about ended which has probably been the driest on record, there has been expended for coal to do all the extra pumping necessary to aid the water power in supplying the borough with water, about five hundred (500) dollars, this amount together with the rental of fifteen hundred (1500) dollars and all expenses incurred in connecting the spring with the new pump is about eighteen hundred dollars less than the amount paid for coal last year. In addition to this saving, there is dispensed with, the labor of one man.

In spite of these facts there are some who think the borough made a mistake in accepting the plant. It seems to me the boro. council should be commended for its foresight and business acumen in securing such an economic and complete pumping station.

Small-pox in This Vicinity.

Ellis J. Stine, the West Ward constable is confined to his parents home on North Thomas street with an attack of small pox This is the only case within the boro limits and every precaution is being taken to prevent its further spread. In Bush Addition there is a young man named Geo. Love said to be suffering with the same disease. The family of Frank P. Davis on East Logan street have been quarantined owing to the fact that Ellis Stine was taked sick while living there with his wife.

Down at Milesburg and in Central City all the schools have been closed owing to the fact that there are one or two cases of small pox in that vicinity.

We do not believe there is any occasion for great alarm as the small pox cases are mild ones and they are being well taken care of to prevent further spread.

MILESBURG.

Clayton Poorman, of Tyrone, was a recent visitor to his mother, Mrs. Geo. Taylor.

Mrs. Tobias Green, on Tuesday morning of last week, called her grand daughter to look after the fire. She did and after doing so, she called her grand mother to get up, receiving no reply. She started to her bedside, finding her dead, gave the alarm to her neighbors. She leaves a husband, two daughters and two sons to mourn their loss, viz: John, of Philadelphia; Bernard, of McKeesport; Mrs. Brenckman, of Millersville, and Miss Mary, of McKeesport. All attended the funeral. She was buried at Roland on Friday. Heart failure was the cause of her death.

Mrs. Allen Swires gave a birthday party on Saturday in honor of her niece, Miss Mary Martin, it being the ninth anniversary of her age. Ten school girls were invited to the party. Miss Mary received ten beautiful presents. All enjoyed themselves, having different amusements for the occasion.

Sunday morning was the coldest of the season. The thermometer played around zero and below in the burg.

Albert Owen, after a long illness, died on Tuesday morning at 10:15 o'clock, aged 80 years and 6 months. He was buried in the Union cemetery, Bellefonte, on Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Owen was born June 9th, 1824, in the town of Clarenton, Orleans county, in the State of New York. He was the son of Robert Owen Sr., a native of Pennsylvania, who was the son of Robert Owen, a native of England or Wales, and who was sent to London, England, to be educated for the ministry and in coming weary of study deserted school and fled to America prior to the American Revolution. He, espousing the cause of the colonies, became estranged and on making his intentions of fidelity to the colonists known to his loyal father in England received prompt reproof and from then all correspondence with nativity and kindred forever ceased. Robert Owen, the family name for many generations, runs back to the oldest records and legends to the mountains of Wales, but no kinship is claimed with the celebrated socialist and scholar or his American descendants. Robert Owen, of Pennsylvania nativity, being a soldier of the War of 1812 and stationed near Lake Erie at the conclusion of peace, settled and married in the Genessee valley, where Albert Owen and a numerous family of children were born. At the age of 18, in 1842, Mr. Owen came to Centre county.

CENTRE HALL.

The musical institute held in Grange Arcadia last week by Prof. W. J. Harrington of Boston, Mass., and his assistant Miss Louise Edler was a success. It closed with a concert on Saturday evening.

On Thursday evening our people were treated to an excellent address by Bishop Hartzler of Harrisburg. Those who failed to attend missed hearing one of the finest sermons ever preached in Centre Hall.

On Sabbath evening Rev. Shultz of the United Evangelical church assisted by Presiding Elder E. Crumbling of Lewisburg held communion services in Centre Hall. A most excellent sermon was preached by the Elder.

The carpenters and Millwrights who are putting the new machinery in the roller mill of Weber Bros. were so overcome by the fumes from the gasoline engine that they staggered like drunken men.

Mr. Francis Ulrich and baby of Millheim spent Sabbath with her parents Mr. and Mrs. George Reish in Centre Hall.

One day last week an almost fatal accident occurred to Mrs. Kilian who lives at the south end of the town. Her husband is engaged in buying and shipping walnut logs, which business takes him away from home part of the time, one of his step sons who happened to be at home was showing his mother how to use a gun so that when alone she might be able to defend herself if attacked by robbers, when the gun was accidentally discharged the ball striking her on the shoulder and passing through the body. At first it was thought the wound would be fatal but at present she is on a fair way to recovery.

Quiet Tip to Young Men.

There are ten or a dozen young men in this town just entering business and professional life, to whom The Republican would like to give a quiet tip to success. These young men are properly ambitious to go ahead, to be someone, to advance in the path that their fathers have blazed. There is a cynical philosophy current in America that nerve wins, that brash, raw—often dishonest—swagger is the key to success.

The Republican would like to call the attention of these young men to Theodore Roosevelt. He is the most pronounced success in America today, and he has accomplished success simply by doing right, by standing by the decent people, the righteous people—and that doesn't mean the pious people, for they are often unrighteous. Roosevelt has had temptations to give in, to compromise with evil, to do the smooth thing, because it is popular. Roosevelt has been glad to do the unpopular thing because it is right. He has been brave without brass, wise without cant, righteous without hypocrisy. And any young man in this town can have the people with him by just such methods. Bellefonte and Centre county people are no different from other people in this world, and when a young man, either in business or in politics, tries to fool the people they find him out. When he tries to be popular, to truckle to what he thinks is local sentiment without regard to right, he only gets the disgust of the people and not their good will. He may win at an election and for a year or two in business, but in the long run he fails.

The man who wins is the man who speaks his mind, who stands for the right, who does not regard his own success or failure as important, compared with the triumph of right. The man who can't be bluffed when he sees the sheer right ahead of him, the man who appeals to the highest in human nature and spurns the lowest will win as sure as day follows night. The Bellefonte young men who are starting out in life in this town should know that the eyes of the people are on them and that the people have ways of knowing when a young man compromises with evil and winks at the forces of disorder. This world is so organized that in the long run honesty pays and dishonesty brings failure. It is not in the main a material world, but a spiritual world. Spirit manages to control, to vindicate itself, to rise above all material considerations. This is the quiet tip that The Republican would give to the young men of Centre county.

Help the Helpless. Cheer the Cheerless.

The Salvation Army at Christmas the world over makes a special effort to help those who cannot help themselves to take a little ray of sunshine into the lives of those who otherwise would know little of comfort or cheer.

In New York city alone last year 50,000 dinners were given out, besides an immense amount of clothing. The smaller cities and towns do their share.

Bellefonte has always been to the front in any good cause. The Captain desires the public to co-operate with her and in a practical way tell the story of Jesus and His love.

Capt. Sechler has been sick, so they are late in getting their effort started this year, but if the public comes to their assistance in this, as they have done in the past, Bellefonte can do as much if not more than any town of its size.

The Army can reach only as your generosity enables them.

Contributions of money, clothing, toys, potatoes, apples, cranberries, tea, coffee, sugar, chickens, turkey, or anything to make a merry Christmas.

MILLIONAIRE'S CHRISTMAS MAIL

Samuel Wright, bachelor, capitalist and millionaire, gazed at four heaps of letters. "What's the matter, George?" he asked of the smooth-faced, imperturbable young man at the opposite side of the big square desk, "have you robbed the Post Office?"

"Christmas," said George Perry, laconically. "They've been coming for two weeks. I've saved them and divided them into four parts. Here," passing a small package, "are the specials. The relatives are in the second pile. The employes are in the third. And in this mound are the widows, the orphans, the old friends, the former acquaintances, the people who knew people who knew you, the 'among others present,' and the 'also rans.'

Mr. Wright smiled. "Well," he said, "We'll get rid of the biggest nuisance first—the employes. I've made out the list and you'll find first the amount of the salary increase and next the Christmas bonus." He handed it over very solemnly, and as he watched Perry's eyes run down the sheet he began to smile again, and the smile increased to a merry laugh.

"Got you that time, George, he exclaimed. Perry tried to keep his expression, but his face was flushing. "Oh, don't try to deny it. You rushed to the P's and you didn't find Perry there. It all depends, you know, on how you manage this Christmas business. If there are any mistakes you make them, but you must not make any. If anybody is dissatisfied you are the cause—but everybody must be pleased. Go ahead now with the relatives, the subsidiary relatives, first, please."

The young man took the letters and began, while Mr. Wright held his small package without looking at it. "Your uncle Jonas had been laid up with the rheumatism and the crops have not—', "Fifty and love." Perry marked it on the letter. "Your uncle James, your old school teacher, wishes you great happiness—." "Twenty-five and thanks." Noted. "Mrs. Doughty, who once nursed you when you had the measles, and who is a connection by the marriage of her stepson—" "Ten for the measles." Noted "The Rev. Mr. Wenting, a distant cousin whose church needs a new organ—" "Fifty for the parson and fifty for the music." Noted. "Your cousin Sarah, who named her child after you—" Hundred." Noted "Your funny uncle John, who believes in free silver, but does not shy at free gold—" "Send him an eagle." Noted. "Your—"

But Mr. Wright happened to look at the package he held in his hand.

"Not a penny," he said. "Not a single, solitary cent."

"I beg your pardon," said the secretary, looking up in surprise.

"See that handwriting," asked Mr. Wright, holding up the envelope. "Do you recognize it?"

"It looks like your nephew's."

"It is, and I know precious well what he wants. But he don't get it—he don't get it," repeated the millionaire, emphasizing the words. "By Jove, he has the nerve of a politician to write to me. I don't even read his letter. You remember his note about this time last year."

"Yes, sir."

"Of course you do. Well, when he asked for that thousand dollars I didn't want to send it to him. You know I didn't, and if it had not been for you—"

"I merely replied to your question and said I thought—"

"Oh, I know. It always happens that way. Every time I allow myself to be overpersuaded I make a mistake. Every time. I knew it was throwing the money away, and now here he is wanting two thousand dollars. I can read it through the envelope. I know him like a book. Oh, yes, I know the rascal."

"Your Aunt Martha's doctors' bills have been very heavy, and she—read the secretary from his memoranda.

"Do you know what that boy did?" demanded Mr. Wright. "After he got that thousand he went to Oilsburg and cut a swath generally. I asked about him, and the replies made me so sick of his folly and extravagance that I tried to banish him from my mind. I don't mind paying for a few wild oats, but I hate to support a fool, especially if he happens to be connected with the family."

"What about your Aunt Martha?"

"I do wish that boy had turned out better," said the millionaire. "I had hopes of him once, but this last transaction—I've a great mind not to read a word he writes."

George Perry smiled inwardly as he saw Mr Wright weakening. The millionaire toyed with the letter, turned it over, looked at the postscript—Oilsburg—and ejaculated, "Stranded, I guess." Then he lifted his head and asked, "Who was the last one?"

"Your Aunt Martha. Doctors' bills. "Pay 'em." Noted. "Your—"

"Go ahead and fix them up, George You know about what—it's too exasperating, this young scamp. Here he has had fine opportunities and has thrown them all away. He'll never amount to anything. It simply isn't in him. He ought to have known I wouldn't read his letter. He—"George Perry looked over and saw Mr. Wright peeking into the envelope; he watched him draw out the paper and begin,

"What's this?" said the millionaire. "Well, I'll be—just listen to this. George! and he read:

Oilsburg, Dec. 15.

Dear Uncle Sam: I read about those inquiries you made and your subsequent remarks. Rather tall for you, I thought, and pretty hard on your loving nephew. You got it straight all right. I was rolling up to the limit. Carriages, bouquets and all that sort of thing, which you don't like. But, my dear uncle, did it ever strike you that a big front will sometimes pay? I had my own doubts for a little, and things looked blue a day or so but it soon began to come my way. I got in on various ground floors. I am there yet. And I can go up in the elevator when I want to. You may have heard of Jonathan Hedges, the man who has struck more oil here than anybody, who has four gushers, either of which is a fortune in itself. He has a daughter—an only most adorable daughter, and she is now married to your nephew. It was a very quiet affair, and you will receive announcement cards later. I rush this off in order to get the inclosed to you in time. You will find it all right, I think—the thousand you let me have and sixty for a year's interest. If you ever need money don't hesitate to write to me. Wishing you a merry Christmas, yours truly.

ROBERT WRIGHT.

"The impudent dog!" exclaimed the millionaire, "Perry, what do you think? Tell me what you think."

"I think it's a very good day for jokes, replied the secretary with satisfaction, but Mr. Wright did not catch his reference to the opening of their day's convereation and the omission of his name from the list.

"You think this is a joke then?"

"Oh, no," said he in disgust. "The letter is all right. Just after you forbade anybody mentioning Bob's name to you he began to make money and he's been at it ever since. The notice about his marriage is in this morning's paper.

Mr. Wright took up the check and handled it as though it were a curiosity. Then he looked across the desk and said. "Take this." He dictated:

Dear Bob: You'll do. But I think I'll have to go you one better. Give the inclosed to Mrs. Robert Wright, and tell her to put it where you can't get hold of it—or to spend it for a wedding present that she wants. She has my deepest sympathy. Yours.

"Never mind," he added: "I think I'll write it out myself and while I am about it draw me up a check for two thousand one hundred and twenty dollars payable to her."

Later he said: "I don't want his money. By the way, George, I suppose you'll be doing something of the same sort soon. When is it to be?"

"Christmas week."

He endorsed his name on Robert Wright's check and passed it around the table. "When money does good, keep it rolling," he said. "This has done me a whole lot of good. So I roll it along to you with best wishes for a merry Christmas."

George flushed more than when he discovered his name was not on the list. "I thank you—" he began.

"Oh, that's all right. Just go on and fix up the Christmas presents. Give 'em all something. It has been a fine year, so don't skimp." He paused and then began to talk to himself. "That rascal, that impudent rascal! But with all my doubts I always thought he'd land on his feet."

George bent his head over his work. It was his turn to laugh.—Chester Peake, in New York Times.

In Memory of Our Mother.

Silently mother, lies under the sod tonight
With her hands folded on her pulseless breast,
All alone we sigh for her presence,
And ws long to hear her voice.
While she is taking her last rest.

Chorus.

I've only left for awhile
In snowy robes of whiteness
By your side I shall be
Wherever you roam

Sad is the parting from her we loved
There is no cause for weeping,
Kind friends may stand at the door
Mothers face they will meet no more
She is face to face with those that love us.

Mothers voice comes over the river of death,
Parting on earth, should bring us nearer to God.
Leaving us to kiss the chastning rod,
Blissful the thought, we shall meet above
When the weary watch is over,
Over the river clasping glad hands;
These are holy ties, binding two hands;
You of the olden, and we of the new,
All passing over, let us be true.

Hints that are Hints.

We want to join the procession of health hinters with a few remarks born of long experience.

When you feel real mean and dopey pare your finger nails. The trimming of the free edge cheers up the whole system. The matrix of the nail is one of the most sensative parts of the human body. Stick a plaster in it and see. When the nail is allowed to grow too long it loses its intelligence, balks the nerves and disturbs the equilibrium.

When your head bothers you part the hair on the other side. It will enable you to strike a balance.

When your jugular vein thumps annoyiugly you want to go asleep for a long time. It means your vitality is low.

When hot in the back of the neck soak your feet in water and washing soda at 110 degrees.

When your tongue is like a stick take an emetic. There's an enemy in your stomach.

When your eyes are lachrymose and their whites are yellow take calomel.

When teeth and gums hurt you chew a rattle.

When your circulation is bad scrape the soles of your feet.

Deer Scarce In Centre County.

The open hunting season which lasted only during the month of November, showed less deer killed in this part of Centre county than ever before. The Seven Mountains, now almost entirely owned by the state as a forestry reserve, and in years past a famous hunting ground for deer, has been practically cleaned of these magnificent game animals and unless some protection is given them by the state they will soon be entirely exterminated.

From reports received it was shown that deer were found in limited numbers in a few parts of the state and hunters from all over flocked into these places and killed the few that were remaining.

If the game commission desires to protect the few scattered herds that still remain in the state they should see that the legislature passes a law prohibiting the killing of deer for at least five years to allow them to increase in number. If they do not, two more hunting seasons will exterminate them.

—The Christmas number of the Woman's Home Companion has something for everybody. In "The Greatest Christmas Charity in the World" Booth-Tucker tells about the Salvation Army Christmas dinner; a unique feature is a picture-story by Wallace Nutting, "Going home for Christmas," "Where the Christmas Toys Come From" is an interesting article on the toy-shops in Germany; David Belasco tells amateur dramatic clubs how to give Christmas entertainments. Special attention is given to "Home-Made Christmas Gifts" "Christmas Entertainments," and up to date fashions. It is preeminently a fiction number. There are short stories by Josiah Allen's Wife, Owen Oliver, J. J. Bell, Temple Bailey and Frederick Smith. The picture features are also unusual, from the genial Santa Claus on the cover to the reproduction of the beautiful symbolic painting which tells the story of "The Three Wise men of the East." Published by The Crowell Publishing Co., Springfield, Ohio; one dollar a year: ten cents a copy.

—The season for hunting turkeys, quail, grouse, woodcock, squirrels and rabbits will close on Thursday, December 15.

PROFIT

The matter of feed is of tremendous importance to the farmer. Wrong feeding is loss. Right feeding is profit.

The up-to-date farmer knows what to feed his cows to get the most milk, his pigs to get the most pork, his hens to get the most eggs. Science.

But how about the children? Are they fed according to science, a bone food if bones are soft and undeveloped, a flesh and muscle food if they are thin and weak and a blood food if there is anemia?

Scott's Emulsion is a mixed food; the Cod Liver Oil in it makes flesh, blood and muscle, the Lime and Soda make bone and brain. It is the standard scientific food for delicate children.

Send for free sample.
Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

Should Not Find Fault.

Merchants who do not advertise their goods in their home papers should not find fault because their townspeople send away to the city stores for things they need, It is the advertisements in the city papers that draws the trade away from home and the people often pay more, too, than they would have to pay for better goods at home—where there is a chance to examine the articles before purchasing. The home merchant who each day, prints an account of his goods and their qualities, that everybody may read them, expects the patronage of course, and he gets it.

Stone Road Maintenance.

Stone roads should be frequently scraped, so as to remove all dust and mud. Nothing destroys a stone road quicker than dust or mud. The hand method of scraping with a hoe is considered best. No matter how carefully adjusted the machinery built for this purpose may be, it is liable to ravel a road by loosening some of the stones. The gutters and surface drains should be kept open, so that all water falling upon the road or on the adjacent ground may promptly flow away.

An Animal Story For Little Folks

HOW MR. SNAPPER FIXED THE STYLES

Old Mr. Snapper wandered leisurely out of the pond one bright spring morning and made for the back yard of the farmhouse. He had lain in the mud all winter and was now glad of the chance to get out and see something. While he was meditating in his slow fashion as to the probable crop of spring gnats he was startled by loud caterwauls.

He crawled to where the noise seemed to come from, and there, on the top of the chopping block, were Tom and Jerry in a most awful dispute.

"It ought to be six inches, and you know it, you horrid thing," said Tom.

"No, sir, it oughtn't to be but five. That's the style at Newport, and I don't care what you say!" yelled Jerry.

"They're quarreling about the length of their tails, I do believe," said Snapper to himself. "Did you ever hear anything so stupid? Well, I'll just fix the styles for them myself."

Tom was standing with hatchet raised to cut his tail off at the length he considered fashionable. Jerry's tail was hanging temptingly over the edge of the block. Snapper grabbed the hanging tail in his iron jaws.

HE MADE A LEAP BACKWARD.

"Wow! Kiyi! Fizz!" yelled Jerry, and, making a gigantic leap in the air, he knocked the hatchet out of Tom's paws, which, falling on Tom's luckless tail, cut it off about halfway up. He gave a yell of pain and made a leap backward. Jerry made a brave attempt to tear his tail free, but Snapper was too quick for him, and like a pair of scissors his jaws closed on his caudal appendage and severed it completely.

The Mystery Is Solved.

The arrival of a nude body at the Clearfield station Wednesday Nov. 30, enclosed in a rough box, was responsible for a number of blood-cudling rumors which flew over this part of the state and caused great excitement. Today the explanations prove that the stories were the result of an impromptu investigation of curious persons, who pried the lid of the box open, and were horrified to find the body. Doctors, to whom the body was sent for dissection, are enjoying the joke.

The box arrived by express. Curiosity prompted a number of persons about the station to make an examination. They pried the lid of the box open, and found that the body, which was that of a man, had been opened across the stomach, and that it had been embalmed. Wild speculation was at once started, and stories of murder and mystery followed each other in quick succession.

The explanation came Saturday morning when it was found that the body was shipped to Clearfield by the anatomical society, from Philadelphia. It was that of Robert Scott, a sailor, who died at a Philadelphia hospital. It was sent to local physicians for the purpose of dissection. Had not the curious persons opened the box, the stories would never gotten out.

No More Suffering.

If you are troubled with indigestion get a bottle of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and see how quickly it will cure you. Geo. A. Thompson, of Spencer, Ia., says: Have had Dyspepsia for twenty years. My case was almost hopeless. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure was recommended and I need a few bottles of it and it is the only thing that has relieved me. Would not be without it. Have doctored with local physicians and also at Chicago, and even went to Norway with the hopes of getting some relief, but Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is the only remedy that has done me any good, and I can heartily recommend it. Every person suffering with indigestion or Dyspepsia should use it. Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

Buy at Home.

The Republican is for the home merchants first, last and all the time. Therefore it says to the people of Bellefonte; Do all of your Christmas shopping at home.

The Republican is always for the best interests of all the people of Bellefonte. Therefore its advice to them is: Buy at home instead of in somefar-away city.

There are several reasons for doing this. The most important to the conumer is that he can obtain the same goods for the same price here as elsewhere. But at home.

Another reason is that the local merchants have treated you liberaliy during the whole year. They have given you an honest equivalent for your money. Thay have done their utmost to please you. They have accommodated you in every way possible. They are friends and neighbors. It is not fair to turn them down in the Christmas purchasing season. Spend your money at home.

Still another reason is that the local merchants materially assist in advancing the interests of the town. They pay heavy taxes for improvements and they are always for municipal progress. They spend much for the benefit of the town. They employ an army of workpeople and make possible the employment of other armies of workers in other branches of trade. They pay good wages in good times and in bad times. Don't you think they deserve reciprocal treatment for all this? Buy at home.

And another reason, of the material kind is that purchasing elsewhere is more costly than buying at home. If you purchase abroad you lose a day in going and returning. You pay carfare. Aftef waiting half an hour in a store you make a purchase in fifteen minutes and wait an hour for change and package. You must buy at least one meal while away. You come home penniless, exhausted, with that cheerful spirit gone, only to find that what you purchased wasn't exactly what you wanted. Several days will be wasted in getting goods exchanged. Escape all this by purchasing at home.

In this city salespeople are more attentive and more obliging than those elsewhere. The goods they handle are of the same quality you would get elsewhere. You can do your buying and get your change promptly and devote the rest of the day to ordinary pursuits. If exchange be necessary you can have that attended to in a few minutes. Buy at home.

Very Bad Business.

Under the above caption the Country Gentleman makes a savage attack on the Pennsylvania State Grange for advocating the Initiative and Referendum. The article has been copied and commented upon by a number of local papers with the evident purpose of sowing seeds of discord among the membership. The charge is made that the officers of the State Grange in working for this reform have endorsed the Socialist Labor platform and thus allied themselves with a political party. Nothing can be farther from the truth. The legislative committee of the State Grange, in working for the Initiative & Referendum is doing only what the State Grange commanded it to do. At the last State meeting resolutions endorsing the Initiative & Referendum and directing the Legislative committee to use all honorable means to secure its adoption were introduced from 4 or 5 different counties, 3 of them, by Pomona Granges. These resolutions were adopted by the State Grange, a body composed of 505 delegates, without a dissenting vote.

To say that because we favor one reform demanded by a political party we therefore endorse their entire platform is about as sensible as it would be to claim that because my neighbor and I agree in defending the Grout Bill I must co-operate with him in everything though he is an avowed infidel and wants free whiskey and free love.

Killed on Railroad.

Martin, eldest son of Martin and Mary Corrigan, of Birmingham, was killed on the railroad at Birmingham station at 9:30 o'clock Sunday, Dec. 4th. The boy was gathering coal from the track when No. 11, the fast newspaper express, came upon him before he was aware of its approach. He was instantly killed, receiving a terrific blow upon the head. The remains were brought to Tyrone and were there prepared for burial. The deputy coroner, who came from Altoona, decided that an inquest was not necessary. The deceased was aged 13 years, 9 months and 17 days. He was born at Springfield Mines. The family had resided at Birmingham a few years ago, but recently lived at Sandy Ridge, from which place they returned to Birmingham two months ago. Surviving the deceased are his parents and the following brothers and sisters: Lottie and Lizzie, of Sandy Ridge; William, Harvey and Maggie, of Birmingham. The funeral was held last Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Birmingham Methodist church, Rev N. B. Smith conducting the services. Interment in the Methodist cemetery at Birmingham.

Ridgeway Hotel Guest Charged with Theft.

Ridgway, Dec. 5.—E. J. Janwitz of Buffalo, a traveling salesman, was robbed while in his room in the New Hyde hotel at this place a night or two ago. A diamond stud worth $125 and some small change were taken from Janwitz H. A. Youmans of Pittsburg was arrested and sent to jail for court on charge of burglary.

Janwitz occupied room 23, and claims that the door was tightly locked when he retired, but about 1.30 o'clock he was awakened by the presence of another man in the room. The Buffalo man at once jumped out of his bed, and reached the hall in time to see the fleeing man enter room No. 19. The occupant was arrested and he gave the name of Youmans and said that he was a traveling salesman. While the diamond and money were not found on him, a pocket piece that belonged to Janwitz was found in his possession.

Boys Life Saved from Membranous Croup.

A Lucky Find.

While attending her deceased father's sale in Germany Valley, Huntingdon county, recently, Mrs. Charles Ewing, of Mt. Union, found hid back of a drawer in an old bureau $4,000. On the bottom of one of the drawers was nailed a board and upon removing it $500 in gold was found. The $4,000 was put up in rolls of "greenbacks." It is not known whether the money was all placed there by Mrs. Ewing's father, Abram Lutz, or not, as the late Enoch Lutz, is said to have intimated to one of his children before his death that it might be well to keep track of that particular piece of furniture in the house of his brother as there was an interesting bit of history connected with it, and it is probable he knew something of the hidden treasures it contained, and who put it there.

New Method to Subdue Horses.

A few days ago one of Henderson township, Huntingdon county's determined farmers wished to catch his horses which had been let loose in a field. At first he was unable to get near them, they being as fleet as deer. Realizing that his animals were masters of the situation and no doubt were laughing at him, he decided that he would rule and accordingly went to the house procured his shot gun, loaded it with bird shot, returned to the field, opened fire upon his fleeing possessions and after a liberal injection of fine shot, his steeds were subdued and in truth were really his own.

The Pace That Tells.

In the six day bicycle races the pace tells terribly at the end. Man after man falls out exhausted. The victor wabbles wearily over the line. In the business race it's the same. Man after man drops out exhausted. The successful man is often a dyspeptic, unable to enjoy success. When the stomach is diseased there is not enough nutrition assimilated to sustain the body and repair the daily waste of tissues. The result is weakness, tending to collapse.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect assimilation of food by which the body is built up with sound, healthy flesh.

"I have taken one bottle of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for indigestion and liver complaint," writes Mr. C. M. Wilson, of Yadkin College, Davidson Co., N. C. "Have had no bad spells since I commenced taking your medicine—in fact, have not felt like the same man. Before I took the 'Golden Medical Discovery' I could not eat anything without awful distress, but now I can eat anything I wish without having unpleasant feelings. Last summer our baby was teething and was so poor he was almost a skeleton. We gave him your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and now he is as healthy and well as any child. I will speak a good word for your medicine whenever I have an opportunity."

They Will Have to Hurry.

The Pennsylvania railroad company to better the time of its trains, has issued on order that way trains must not stop at the local or any other station longer than two minutes, if within that time all passengers can be handled within two minutes the train must proceed regardless of all consideration for baggage and other goods. When a train stops at a station the baggage and the like will be unloaded first. If the baggage and goods on the platform cannot be loader in what remains of the two minutes' time the train will pull out at the expiration of the limit, leaving the remaining baggage for the next oncoming train. The railroad officials figure that with a little more hustling the station hands can handle all the baggage within the required time.—Ex.

A UNIQUE RECORD.

NOT ANOTHER LIKE IT IN OUR BROAD REPUBLIC.

To give positive home testimony in every locality is of itself unanswerable proof of merit; but when we add to this the continued endorsement from people who testified years ago no evidence can be stronger. A Bellefonte citizen greatfully acknowledges the good received from Doan's Kidney Pills, and when time has tested the cure will find the same hearty endorsement, with added enthusiasm and continued praise. Cases of this kind are plentiful in the work of Doan's Kidney Pills, and such a record is unique in the annals of medicine.

J. Curtis Johnson, 365 E. Bishop St., says: "I think even more of Doan's Kidney Pills now than I did in 1897 when I made a statement for publication recommending them. I had been suffering at that time for more than a year with backache and lameness through the loins. At times I was so weak that I could not lift anything and if I stooped it was almost impossible for me to straighten up. When driving there was a steady aching over my kidney the whole time. I felt dull and tired and lacked ambition. Procuring Doan's Kidney Pills from F. P. Green's drug store I was soon cured of the whole combination of troubles and was cured very quickly. My wife has also used Doan's Kidney Pill for backache and was cured and invigorated generally as well. We both think very highly of Doan's Kidney Pills and have been recommending them ever since I gave my former statement in 1897."

The Virtues of Vin-Te-Na...

Your knowledge of the workings of the "human machine" no doubt makes you aware of the fact that the nervous system is fed and sustained by and through the blood.

When the blood is charged with the elements which nature designed, the entire nervous system and all the organs are kept in a healthful state.

Without the force which the nerves absorb from the blood, both brain and body are poor machines. Vin-te-na contains just those elements which are wanting in impoverish. poor blood. It was found on both common sense and scientific knowledge. It has conscience and integrity back of it. Vin-te-na is the one medicine that does precisely what it was designed to do, i. e. gives life and nerve-food to the blood. It actually cures every one of those disorders which come from impoverished blood.

—Officer Pat Gainor, who is a member of the police force of Lindsey, near Punxsutawney, was held up the other night by highwaymen and robbed of his revolver and mace. The officer was making his rounds when he was suddenly confronted by several strangers who had the "drop" on him and he was compelled to submit. It is thought that it was the intention of the men to rob some of the business places of the village.

—Charles A. Loder, who made such a hit here last Friday night with his company in "The Funny Side of Life" has cancelled all new engagements and will play nothing but return dates from now until the close of the season. Bellefonte theatre goers will be delighted to know that they will have another opportunity to see this funny comedian and his clever company when they play their return date in our town. No doubt they will be greeted by a large audience.

—William A. Buck, a middle division freight brakeman, residing at Harrisburg, was instantly killed in the East Altoona yard Friday night in the wrecking of the cabin of the crew to which he belonged. Buck was the rear brakeman of cabin crew No. 90116, and after the train the crew was to take east had been made up the cabin was shifted down a track adjoining to be attached. As the switch was reached, to run it onto the track on which the train stood, it left the rails. Buck jumped from his position to save himself, but just as he did so the cabin toppled over and upset. The unfortunate man was caught under it and his life crushed out. He was aged 45 years and had lived at Harrisburg for a number of years.

—The Sisters of Mercy will continue to care for the fifty-eight children rendered homeless by the destruction of the Catholic Children's home at Loretto on Thursday afternoon. No steps have been taken looking to the re-erection of the home, but prominent citizens of Loretto say work on a new structure will be started in the near future. Charles M. Schwab, the ex-president of the United States steel corporation, Saturday tendered the sisters the use of the large building in the central part of the town, formerly used as a hotel by Captain McDonald, for the housing of the children until some permanent arrangements are made. The girls are being cared for at Mt. Aloysius academy, Cresson, and the boys at St. Francis college, Loretto.

—A story was recently told of how a preacher tested the effect of the hard times upon his congregation. At the conclusion of one of his sermons he said: "Let everybody in the house that pays his debts stand up." Instantly every man, woman and child, with one exception, rose to their feet. He seated the crowd and then said: "Let every man who is not paying his debts stand up." The exception noted—a careworn, hungry looking individual, clothed in his last summer's suit—slowly assumed a perpendicular position, and leaned upon the back of the seat in front of him. "How is it, my friend," inquired the minister "that you are the only man in this large congregation who is unable to meet his obligations?" "I publish a newspaper," he meekly replied, "and my brethren here, who have just stood up, are all my subscribers, and"— "Let us pray," exclaimed the minister.

—Monday morning men were put to work clearing away the debris of the Children's Home conducted at Loretto by the Sisters of Mercy. As a result of last Thursday's fire the place is practically a total ruin. It is the intention to build as rapidly as the work can be done. The new building will be put up on the old site. It will be much smaller than the old one, but it will be so constructed that additions can be made to it readily, and the architect engaged to make the plans has been instructed to draw them with that end in view. It is not known that the Sisters will have available funds aside from their insurance money, which is $20,000.

—An international conference is soon to be held in Berlin, Germany, with a view of bringing about an understanding between the different governments as to the use of wireless telegraphy on the coast. The main object of the conference is to draw up a set of regulations so that the ships of all nationalities can exchange telegrams with the coast in any part of the world. In order to obtain this result the governments must come to an accord as to where the stations for public use are to be located and also regarding the use of the electric apparatus, so that the message will not interfere with each other. The Congress will be attended by delegates from the leading countries, —The Spangler Inn Hotel was totally destroyed by fire Sunday morning. The fire originated in the barroom, but it was first discovered in the attic. The building was owned by Patrick Whalan, who leased it some time ago to Anderson & Gasey. Whalan carried an insurance of $5,000 and the occupants also carried some insurance. Besides the hotel the barn and other buildings were destroyed by flames. The town turned out to battle against the elements, but the scarcity of water rendered it impossible to save the structures. The Spangler Inn was one of the oldest hotels in the north of Cambria county. It was a large place containing about 40 rooms.

Death of Dr. Oliver Hutzel.

Dr. Oliver Hutzel of Kings Mills, Ohio, died in Texas of consumption. Dr. Hutzel was quite well known in Bellefonte where he often visited. He was a grandson of Mrs. Sprankle, of Coleville. He was born in Coleville and was about 24 years of age. He graduated from the Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia and was practicing in the Williamsport hospital when he was taken ill with tuberculosis and gave up [illegible] to Texas in the hope o[illegible]lth. He had been i[illegible] death was rather unexpected and proved a great shock to his friends and relatives in this place. He was an intelligent young fellow and his untimely death, just as he was about to enter upon a career which gave promise of a bright future, is a cause of great sorrow and regret to his many friends and relatives.

He is survived by his parents and two sisters, Katherine and Ethel, of Kings Mills, Ohio.

He will probably be buried in Kings Mills, Ohio.

Aged Woman Turned into Human Torch.

Mrs. Anna Harbridge, aged seventy-six years, of Julian, this county, was badly burned Monday, Dec. 5th, while fighting a fire, which threatened her home. She lives near to the Bald Eagle railroad, a large field being between her home and the tracks. Monday a spark from a passing engine set fire to the grass in the field. The wind was blowing toward Mrs. Harbridge's home and, noticing the danger, she went out into the yard to fight the flames. She had been there but a short time when her clothing caught fire and in a few minutes she was a human torch. Her cries brought to her aid Miss Mary Wilson, who lives with her. She at once started to tear off the burning clothing. Other help arrived but not until Mrs. Harbridge was badly burned about the face, hands and one side. In spite of the extent of her injuries she is expected to recover.

Church Burned to the Ground.

The Methodist Episcopal church at Mackeyville was burned to the ground Sunday Dec. 4. The fire was discovered shortly before noon and had gained such headway that it could not be checked. The organ, a few chairs and some of the cushions from the seats was all that could be saved. The fire is said to have been caused by an overheated flue. The church had recently undergone some extensive repairs. The loss is estimated at $4,000 and there is $1,500 insurance.

Betrothed at Birth.

In some parts of West Africa the girls have long engagements. On the day of their birth they are betrothed to a baby boy a trifle older than themselves, and at the age of twenty they are married. The girls know of no other way of getting a husband, and so they are quite happy and satisfied. As wives they are patterns of obedience, and the marriages usually turn out a success.
